

Message from the board

Dear Readers,

When you read this 51st issue of our BMA Information, you will find a recurring theme in some of the articles: collaboration between various companies of the BMA Group and our local and regional agents in a close-knit network.

Last year again saw an increasing number of more permanent collaborations and international mergers in your sectors, and the growing impact of global market developments – such as, for instance, the international debt crisis. Given the speed of these changes and their significance, a high level of flexibility is required of us, so we can be not just equal to the challenges you present us with, but truly delight you with our solutions, as expressed in our corporate vision.

Many of our projects involve the collaboration of multinational teams composed of members from the different companies in the BMA Group. This allows us to combine our technological expertise and top-quality products with special language skills, specific technical knowledge and local project management – to deliver the best solution for you.

To ensure smooth and efficient collaboration, and to provide you with a consistently high quality of service wherever you are, our technical staff receive globally standardised training and continuous development. In plant design around the globe, we rely on the same professional tools and methods and our project management everywhere is based on the same principles and processes.

The BMA Group is more than equal to tough challenges – our committed global network will delight in finding the perfect solution for you!

Kind regards,

BMA Braunschweigische Maschinenbauanstalt AG
